History of Halloween

Halloween started 2000 years ago, at a Celtic festival called the Samhain festival. The Celts would wear costumes and light bonfires to ward off ghosts. In the eighth century a man named Pope Gregory III made November 1 to honor Saints. Eventually, it incorporated some Samhain traditions. The night before Saints Day was called Hallows Eve, and later known as Halloween. Overtime, Halloween evolved and people started trick-or-treating, carving pumpkins, having gatherings, eating treats, and having costumes.

Book Review

Author: Aaron Reynolds
Illustrator: Peter Brown

Lexie Chambers review, “I’ve read Creepy Carrots! Multiple times as a child. I have to say, for a children’s book about a rabbit that is being constantly bombarded by angry carrots, I didn’t think it’d scare me. I was wrong.”

Favorite Halloween Movies

Favorite Halloween movies this month!

Regan Kutz - “My favorite Halloween movie is Halloween Town because I like how it isn’t a scary movie but isn’t too childish. I rate this movie a 4 out of 5 stars.”

Miley Hurley - “My favorite Halloween movie is It, due to its level of horror. Definitely a must-see for thrill-seekers. I would for sure rate this movie 5 out of 5 stars.”

Angeli Johnson - “My favorite Halloween movie is Beetlejuice because the movie is fun. I give the movie a 4 out of 5 stars.”

Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Breast cancer is a disease when cancer cells form in someone's breast tissue. Chemotherapy, radiation therapy, and hormone therapy are all part of removing the cancer. Men can get breast cancer too, even though it is rare. Although it is a common myth, breast cancer is in no way contagious. Breast cancer is caused when something goes wrong in cell growth and the body ends up with more than needed. This causes a build up of cells, and after awhile it causes a tumor. From there, it becomes breast cancer. The earlier you can check for cancer, the higher the chances are for survival. Therefore, self checks and mammograms can save people.
